We'd like to interrupt your Sunday with an important message from your sponsor.

On October 18-19-20 and November 2-3, phones will be ringing all over Ottawa. If you have not yet made your pledge to the 1988 United Jewish Appeal, a volunteer who is helping in our super effort to reach each and every home in our community, will call you. When your canvasser calls, please greet him/her warmly. And make your contribution count...our overall goal of $3.6 million dollars must be reached.

By reinforcing your commitment to support our own Jewish Community, you are giving the gift of dignity to our elderly, our sick, and our youth reaching out for their heritage.

By reinforcing your commitment to support World Jewry in lands of stress and distress, you are giving the gift of hope.

By reinforcing your commitment to support Israel, you are giving the gift of a vision fulfilling itself.

COMMENT

"If I forget thee, O Jerusalem, let my right hand forget her cunning..."

— Psalms — 137: 5-6

*Jerusalem and State of Israel Bonds — On June 7, 1967, Mordecai Gur, the Paratroop Commander, stood before the Western Wall and flashed the magic words to the world: "The Temple Mount is ours." On this 20th Anniversary year of the liberation and reunification of the eternal capital of the Jewish people, our eyes and thoughts are once again focused on Jerusalem. Jerusalem is in the centre of our High Holiday prayers. Jerusalem is a living symbol of the permanence of Israel, and we must make certain that this sacred city, the City of Peace, remains at peace. For that, Israel needs a healthy economy. Our links with Jerusalem are expressed for many of us in our Israel Bond support which is building every aspect of the Israeli economy. Your support of State of Israel Bonds contributes to the flourishing of Jerusalem, assists Israel's development and is an exemplary demonstration of unity with Israel and its people as they progress towards economic independence. Yom Kippur is the appropriate time to strengthen your bonds with Jerusalem and Israel. We urge the community to buy Israel Bonds and to participate in the 5748/1987 Israel Bond High Holy Day Appeal celebrating the 20th Anniversary of Jerusalem — Reunited Forever.

DECISIONS

*The Ontario Election — The Political Liaison Committee of the Community Relations Committee of the Vaad met, prior to the election, with all of the candidates from all three political parties in the eight Ottawa-Carleton ridings for the purpose of briefing and discussing with them some of the concerns of the Jewish Community in the provincial sphere. The issues discussed were: funding for Jewish Day Schools; Religious Education in Public Schools; Pastoral Care Counselling in Secondary Schools; Race Relations; and Israel-Ontario Trade. The community thanks the many volunteers who participated in this worthwhile expression of democracy.

ACHSHAV

*Technion — The community acknowledges with pride the establishment of The Ottawa Research And Student Fund in memory of Bess and Gilbert Greenberg by the Canadian Technion Society. Gilbert, a Past-President of the Vaad, and Bess were both prominently involved in all aspects of Jewish life in the Ottawa community. The Fund will guarantee a reservoir of regular income for research, stimulating academic talent and acquiring "state of the art" equipment. The Technion is recognized as one of the leading technological universities in the world. Its researchers have provided Israel entry into the high-tech era in every aspect of science and engineering.

*Weizmann Institute — The community is further honoured by the establishment of The Bert Migicovsky Scholarship at the Weizmann Institute of Science in Israel, in memory of Dr. Bert Migicovsky. Bert was a leading biochemist for the Federal Government for 37 years. He received many honours in recognition of his distinguished career and his outstanding contributions to the support and promotion of scientific research in Canada and Israel. The Canadian Society for the Weizmann Institute was a particular enthusiasm of his since it reflected both his interest in science and in the international basis of scientific interactions.

Joseph and Charna Mittelman to co-chair '88 UJA Super Week

Avraham Iny, General Chairman of the 1988 United Jewish Appeal is pleased to announce the appointment of Joseph and Charna Mittelman as co-chairman of Super Week '88.

Natives of Montreal, the Mittelmans have lived in Ottawa since 1975 and have been actively involved in the local community since their arrival. They served as Deputy Co-Chairmen of Super Week '87.

Joseph, a Doctor of Optometry, is a graduate of McGill University and the University of Waterloo, and is in private practice in Rockland, Ontario. He is a charter member of B'nai Brith Bytown Lodge and served for several years as chairman of the Health Sciences Division of the United Jewish Appeal of Ottawa.

In addition, Joseph has served on the Board of Directors of the Ontario Association of Optometrists and as an Associate Editor of the Canadian Journal of Optometry. He is past president of the Ontario Association of Optometrists and at present is Chairman of the Legislative Affairs Committee of the Ontario Association of Optometrists.

Charna and Joseph Mittelman

tee of the Ontario Association of Optometrists.

A graduate of McGill University, Charna obtained her teaching degree and has taught elementary school. She is a past president of the Ottawa Modern Jewish School and has served as a member of the executive of the Jewish Community Campus. She has played an active role in Ottawa Women's ORT and Hadassah-WIZO.

Joseph and Charna have participated in the Young Leadership Development Group. They are the parents of Robbie, 12 and Danny, 10.

Super Week is the vehicle used to cover a great number of cards in the United Jewish Appeal Campaign in a short and tight time-frame. Phoning will take place on October 18, 19, 20, and November 2 and 3 from the Jewish Community Centre, 151 Chapel Street.

Annual general meeting of Tamir Foundation scheduled for Oct. 21

The annual general meeting of the Tamir foundation will take place on Wednesday, October 21, at 8:00 p.m. at Agudath Israel Synagogue, 1400 Coldrey Ave., Ottawa.

The guest speaker, Ald. Nancy Smith, will be speaking on "Group Home Policy in Ottawa."

Tamir, part of the Ottawa Jewish Community since 1980, offers residential service to Jewish developmentally handicapped adults. The organization's first group home began operating in September 1985.

In May, 1986, Tamir was granted status as a beneficiary agency of the Ottawa Vaad Ha'ir. The agency has already begun to receive a portion of its operating funds from the proceeds of the U.J.A. campaign.

"We are delighted by this demonstration of community support for our goals," says Mrs. Ingre. "Tamir will continue to strive to ensure that our Jewish developmentally handicapped adults are able to live with dignity and support in a Jewish home in our community."

Membership in Tamir now numbers over 350. Apart from funding from the Vaad and revenue from its residents, Tamir depends on funds raised by annual membership contributions and its donor card program.

All members of the community are invited to attend the annual general meeting. Refreshments will be served. For further information about Tamir, contact president, Hilary Ingre at 830-2631, or membership chairman, Lily Penso at 725-1846.

Protestants only scholarship ok: court

By Ben Kayfetz
TORONTO (UJA) — An institution's scholarship fund available only to white Protestants is not discriminatory, the Ontario Supreme Court has ruled.

The 54-year-old Leonard Foundation dispenses about $123,000 annually to students of "the white race". The benefactor of the fund, the late Col. Reuben Wells Leonard, felt white Christians "are best qualified to lead the march of civilization." Students who "owe allegiance to any foreign government, prince, Pope or potentate" also are ineligible.

The restrictions have been opposed for 15 years by various public institutions and universities including the Ontario Human Rights Commission. The commission last year investigated Canada Trust Co., the trustee of the fund, and asked the court to rule on the legality of the scholarships.

The Human Rights Code of Ontario specified that guarantees of equal treatment are not infringed in cases of philanthropic or educational organizations that serve specific ethnic or religious groups. Justice William McKeon found this section protected the fund.

Your input, Please . . .

Those who have not yet had the opportunity to participate in one of the Long Range Planning Committee's Community Impact Forums are invited to attend the last forum in this phase of the Long Range Planning Process, which will take place on Monday, October 26 in the Social Hall of the JCC, at 8:00 p.m.

Co-Chairmen, Bernard Dolansky and Charles Freedman, stress that the effectiveness of this consultative phase depends on the participation of as many community members as possible.

The format of the evening includes a brief review of the community's demographics and currently available services, followed by an open discussion during which participants can express their views on the community's future goals and directions.

For more information, contact Bernard Dolansky (722-1096), Charles Freedman (521-8216) or Hilary Ingre at 232-7306.

Every year it happens at the moment when you least expect it. You answer a ringing phone and...there it is.

You're at a buffet evening vacillating between blowing next week's calories on the chocolate cheesecake or a healthy hunk of the raspberry mousse, when the next in line whispers softly in your ear, "oh, by the way..."

You're at the bakery ordering a pumpernickel, two seedless rye, three challah, a pound of sugar twists and, what the heck — throw in a sliced raisin bread — when a tap on the shoulder comes and you hear, "while I've got you..."

The approaches vary, but the request is the same.

This year the jig was up almost before I knew it.

She was waiting in the hall, holding up the wall for all I could tell, as I exited my office for a trot to the switchboard.

"Hi," she said. "Can I talk to you for a minute?"

Not an unusual request.

"Sure," I replied. After all, she wasn't a stranger to me, but rather someone of whom I am very fond. "Did you want to talk to me here or in my office?"

"Your office, I think," she said.

And then I saw it. Clutched in her left hand was a pledge card, with my name on it.

"It's that time of the year," she said, handing the card to me. "What'll it be?"

And I knew, without question, that the moment of truth had come. UJA wanted its fair share.

Every year, just as the leaves are beginning to turn and the community swings into action after the summer wind down, the force that makes this community tick — UJA — revs up, predictable as the fact that Monday will follow Sunday.

And every year we are asked to look deep into ourselves and dig a little deeper into our finances to make certain that what has been built here will continue to grow...and to make certain that our homeland will flourish.

There's no question that we'll all be approached, from the littlest kid who will dip into his allowance for his gift to his community, to the seniors who have seen the changes wrought by UJA dollars over the years.

Whenever it happens to you this year, please, for all of us, do your fair share for UJA.

Pre-schoolers registration

Would you like your three or four-year-old child to recite the blessings for Shabbat? Would you like to marvel at your pre-schooler's knowledge of Rosh Hashana, Chanukah or recitation of the questions at Pesach.

For the past six years Talmud Torah Afternoon School has offered a pre-school program emphasizing Jewish traditions. Under the professional guidance of Sharay Marcus, the program features Shabbat, Bible stories, Jewish holidays laced with Hebrew vocabulary, creative art, songs and dance and is held every Sunday morning (9:30 - 11:45 a.m.) at 881 Broadview in the pre-school department.

Registration is open for immediate commencement. Call Doris Bronstein at 722-8827.

CJC applauds gov't treatment of Bill C-71

Canadian Jewish Congress has applauded the government's reintroduction and passage through second reading of Bill C-71 which will permit the prosecution in Canada of suspected Nazi war criminals.

The stated commitment of the government and opposition spokesmen to move the bill through swift passage and royal assent with alacrity, confirms the dedication of all parties to the moral imperative of seeing justice done", said Les Scheininger, Canadian Jewish Congress' honorary legal counsel. "The prosecution of Nazi war criminals in Canada will remove a glaring stain from the fabric of Canadian society."

JVS Toronto given grant

The Jewish Vocational Service of Metropolitan Toronto has been awarded a grant of $15,000 to train counsellors in immigrant organizations how to help their clients get jobs, Secretary of State David Crombie, the Minister Responsible for Multiculturalism announced recently.

The Jewish Vocational Service is a non-sectarian agency with a two-part mandate: 1) to provide employment and related counselling services to clients of varied cultural and linguistic backgrounds and 2) to provide vocational adjustment services to assist the unemployed and underemployed to develop realistic vocational goals.

The agency is in the second year of a pilot program titled The Multicultural Outreach Skills Training Program. It is designed to provide outreach skills training to staff of community-based organizations involved with immigrant integration.

The first phase involved the development of the program framework. The second, using funds from the Department of the Secretary of State, will set up one-day training sessions on specific issue areas such as networking and coping with unemployment and employment standards.

Women Making a Difference

By Susannah Dalfen

Chairwoman, Women's Division, UJA '88

The High Holidays are a turning point. While they are a time for seeking forgiveness for our collective as well as individual transgressions, they can also be a time for recognizing our achievements. Often, we are only too quick to find fault with ourselves and fail to appreciate our attainments. This Rosh Hashana we might take the opportunity to acknowledge our accomplishments.

As women, we have continued to challenge the traditional definitions which have confined us, by taking on tasks which were heretofore closed to us or by adding new responsibilities to a life already full of demands. This has often proven to be of benefit in that it has opened new areas of endeavour to us. In many ways, however, it resulted in our being confronted by new challenges which we had not anticipated and for which no role models exist. Women persist in struggling with these new roles and expectations.

The recent Ontario election in which there were an unprecedented number of women candidates attests to increasing female participation in the larger community. Women clearly wish to actively partake in the ongoing evolution and operation of our society. In our own Jewish community in Ottawa, I have personally witnessed outstanding dedication and a tremendous expenditure of energy by women in our United Jewish Appeal cabinet. Women are carrying out the fundamental Jewish value of service, combining the best elements of avodah (holy work) and tzadakah, despite increasing daily demands.

As the New Year unfolds, it is time to recognize the high quality of women's contributions to our community and to be proud of the heritage we carry and convey to our children through our actions. With this in mind, I am proud to announce that we have already raised $109,505. This year, this represents a 12% increase.

I wish all women and their families a New Year of renewal and joy.

Kaleidoscope, our United Jewish Appeal Women's conference on October 5 and 6, will be a showcase of women from the Canadian Jewish community who are making a difference through their dedication and expertise.

Do come and be part of this!

The Joy of Return
By Rabbi Mordecai Berger
Young Israel Congregation

This summer I was blessed with the good fortune to have visited Eretz Yisrael. The highlight of my visit was my stay in "Yerushalayim", the Kosel and old city in particular. Words cannot describe the inspiration felt when praying by the last remnant of our Holy Temple.

Quietly snuggled by the side of the Kosel there is a booth that is used by thousands daily. It has become an oasis for the wandering Jew where he can refresh himself and express Jewish inspiration. This is the Tiflin Booth that has been manned by volunteers for the past 20 years, offering the opportunity to put on Tiflin and say the holy words of Shema. I took the opportunity to volunteer in assisting Jews with Tiflin. From all over the world people came, but the individual that I assisted lived in Tel Aviv. It was an emotional happening for this Tel Avivnik to experience this Mitzva by the Kosel. But not only by the Kosel is this happening. When I travelled to Tel Aviv and came to the central bus station, there were Tiflin booths on many corners, once again offering Jews the opportunity to link up with their history and tradition. The common denominator of these experiences is the following: every Jew, under the proper circumstances, can connect himself with G-d, our traditions, and the Jewish people.

This is the expression of the "Pintele Yid", that may be dormant for many. Similarly, during the New Year season this spark of Jewishness ignites for many others. In Hebrew the process of strengthening Jewish ties is called T'Shuva. This principle is not to be confused with the general term of Repentance. The exact translation of repentance into Hebrew is Charatah and not T'Shuva. They are almost opposite concepts.

Charatah stresses a movement towards a new path of action by the individual. He regrets that he committed an evil deed or failed to perform a good one and now wishes to conduct himself in a new manner. T'Shuva, on the other hand, signifies return. A Jew is essentially good and his innermost desire is to do what is right. It is only due to various circumstances, wholly or partly beyond his control, that he has erred. This is the Jewish concept of T'Shuva — a return to one's roots and origins, to one's innermost self, revealing one's innate personality, which will now become the master of his life. This feeling is felt by Jews throughout the world, at the Kosel, in Tel Aviv and right here in Ottawa.

May the coming New Year 5748 bring happiness, meaning and G-d's blessing to us all.

Canada-Israel Committee Commends Canadian Government Statement

OTTAWA — The Canada-Israel Committee and its constituent organizations support the Canadian government's position that the Arab-Israeli conflict can only be resolved through direct negotiations among the parties, and that the results of these negotiations should not be pre-judged by governments or international organizations. We commend the government for reaffirming this policy at the Francophone summit.

As Mr. Clark noted, the concept of Palestinian self-determination has historic connotations which, in our view, are inimical to Israel's security and well-being, and to a just settlement of the Arab-Israeli conflict. The Canada-Israel Committee believes that a resolution of the conflict should take account of the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people, as stated in the Camp David Accords.

Sidney J. Spivak, Q.C.
National Chairman

The Canada-Israel Committee speaks on behalf of the organized Jewish community on issues pertaining to Canada-Israeli public affairs. It is sponsored by B'nai B'rith Canada, Canadian Jewish Congress, Canadian Zionist Federation and the Jewish communities of Canada.

Prominent Canadian Jews among ME peace petition supporters

By Simon Rosenblum
A leading organization of Canadian Palestinians, the Canada Palestine Committee (CPC) has enthusiastically endorsed a peace initiative launched by dovish forces in Israel.

The Committee has voiced support for a petition campaign which calls on all parties in the Arab-Israeli conflict to forego the use of violence and to establish a peace based on mutual recognition, territorial compromise and self-determination. The petition which originated from the Tel Aviv-based International Centre for Peace in the Middle East, has been signed by many distinguished Jews and Arabs in Israel and in the West Bank and Gaza and is being circulated worldwide.

The CPC stated its endorsement of the petition in a letter to Canadian Friends of Peace Now (CFPN), which is coordinating the signature campaign within the Canadian Jewish community.

"We believe that the Palestinians and Israelis are destined to live together in peace with full security and equality," the letter said. It added that, "a just and lasting peace is not only desirable, but also achievable. Such a peace settlement must contain the provisions meeting the legitimate security needs of both people...We share our aspirations and hope that 1987 would prove to be a catalyst year for peace and justice."

The letter from the CPC followed the recent publication of the petition and a list of distinguished signatories in The Canadian Jewish News.

Prominent Canadian Jews who have endorsed the campaign include: Rabbi Gunther Plaut and Milton Harris, past presidents of the Canadian Jewish Congress; Rabbi Irwin Shild, Chairman of the Canada-Israel Committee (Ontario Division); David Satok and B.J. Finestone, current vice-presidents of the Canadian Jewish Congress; three members of the Bronfman family; Professor David Dewitt, past president of Canadian Professors for Peace in the Middle East; Kalman Kaplan-ski, member of the Economic Council of Canada and a long-time Histadrut worker; Senator Jack Marshall and Member of Parliament David Orlikow.

The list of Israeli and West Bank endorsements includes Abba Eban, Member of Knesset, and Hanna Siniara, a Jerusalem publisher.

Canadian Friends of Peace Now says the response to the campaign by notable Canadian Jews and by the Palestinian organization is very encouraging. It shows that there is some common ground from which to build bridges between the two peoples, CFPN spokespersons say.

Thanksgiving

This year both the secular and religious communities join together to give thanks. As in Thanksgiving, the feast of Succot marks the successful harvest of the recent crop. Some foodstuffs remain synonymous with the holiday. They include sweet potatoes, cranberries, cabbage and eggplant.

Moussaka

- 1 1/2 medium onion, finely chopped
- 2 cloves garlic chopped
- 4 T. oil
- 6 large tomatoes peeled and chopped
- 1 t. dried basil
- 1 t. dried oregano
- pinch sugar
- 1 lb. ground lamb
- 1/2 lb. ground beef
- 1/2 t. nutmeg
- 2 T. parsley
- salt and pepper
- 3 medium eggplants

Sauté onion and garlic in oil till golden. Divide into 2 parts and place half in large saucepan. Add tomatoes and half the basil and oregano. Cover and simmer over low heat for 1 hour. Add a pinch of sugar.

To the other part of the onion mixture add the ground meat and the remaining basil and oregano. Brown the meat and add the nutmeg, parsley, salt and pepper. Set aside. In a frypan using an additional 1/2 cup oil fry the unpeeled eggplant which have been thinly sliced and wiped dry. When golden brown remove onto paper towel to drain. Place a layer of eggplant in a 2 quart casserole. Add some of the cooked tomatoes then some meat mixture and continue to layer till the top ending with tomatoes. Bake uncovered about 1 1/2 hours. I am told it is best to recook this dish. So divide up your cooking: 45 min. the day before, and then 45 minutes just before serving. Bake at 350. Serves 8.

Cranberry and Cabbage Slaw

- 3 cups shredded cabbage
- 1 T. minced onion
- 2 T. vinegar
- 1 t. salt
- 1 cup cranberry orange relish

Mix together and chill.

Sweet Potatoes and Cranberries

- 6 sweet potatoes
- 1 1/2 cups cranberry sauce
- 3/4 cup water
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 3/4 t. grated orange rind
- 3/4 t. cinnamon
- 1 1/2 T. margarine

Cook potatoes in boiling water about 20 min. till tender. Peel and cut into slices. Place the potato slices in a greased 2 quart casserole. Combine the cranberry sauce, water, brown sugar, orange rind, and cinnamon in a saucepan. Bring to a boil and simmer 5 min. Add the margarine and pour over sweet potatoes. Bake at 350 for 20 min. Serves 6.

Sweet Potato Chocolate Nut Cake

- 4 oz. semi-sweet chocolate chips
- 1 t. vanilla
- 3 cups flour
- 1 1/2 cups sugar
- 2 t. baking powder
- 1 t. baking soda
- 2 t. cinnamon
- 1/2 t. ginger
- 1/4 t. cloves
- 1 t. salt
- 2 c. mashed, cooked, sweet potatoes
- 1 1/2 c. oil
- 4 eggs
- 1 cup chopped nuts

Grease and flour a 10-inch tube pan. Place chocolate and vanilla in a small saucepan and set covered in a larger pan that has been filled with boiling water. Sift together dry ingredients and set aside. In a large bowl, beat sweet potatoes and oil together, then beat in eggs one by one. Slowly add dry ingredients and mix well, and then stir in nuts. Put 1/3 mixture in another bowl and stir in chocolate, which should be melted smooth. Alternate the batters in a tube pan. With a knife, cut through the batters to swirl. Bake at 350 for 1 1/4 hours. Let cool 10 min.

(note) Sweet potatoes should be cooked in their jackets whenever possible. This preserves the nutrients just under the skin, and makes it easier to peel the potatoes.

Library has VHS videos

The Malca Press Memorial Library, located at Agudath Israel Synagogue, 1400 Coldrey Avenue, is beginning its 26th year of operation.

The library's excellent collection of books by Jewish authors and on Jewish themes, including the latest best-sellers, continues to grow. Of particular interest is the large selection of books on Jewish women by Jewish women authors.

In addition, the library is now expanding to include an audio-visual component. A wide variety of VHS video tapes on Jewish themes will shortly be available for borrowing or viewing at the library.

Membership in the Malca Press Memorial Library is free and is open to any member of the community. The community is invited to drop by on Thursdays from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. or on Sunday mornings between 9:00 a.m. and 12 noon.

For further information, contact the librarian, Frieda Lauterman at 728-3501.

56TH GENERAL ASSEMBLY
NOVEMBER 18-22, 1987

The late Jay B. Taller

Torah presented in memory of Jay Taller

Shabbat Nahmu — the Shabbat of Consoling — was chosen by Sally and Morton Taller for the presentation of a Torah in memory of their son, Jay B. Taller, to Congregation Machzikei Hadas.

A brilliant young man, Jay was greatly respected by his peers and admired by his elders. Tragically, after a brief illness, he passed away in Toronto on Oct. 11, 1984, the first day of Succot.

Normally a Torah is presented during the week, when people can fill in the last letters and fulfill the mitzvah of writing a Sefer Torah. This Torah, being complete, was presented on Shabbat and put to immediate use.

Smaller and lighter than most, the Torah was purposely selected by the Tallers for these characteristics, which allow for easy carrying by both young and old, thus ensuring frequent use throughout the year.

In his remarks from the pulpit, Rabbi Reuven Bulka remembered Jay Taller as a man of remarkable achievement and supreme commitment to excellence.

"This commitment to excellence included not only his studies but his human relations," Rabbi Bulka said. "He worked continually on being a respectful son and sensitive brother, on being a responsible and responsive member of the community, on affirming the values of caring, meticulously weighing the words he uttered to make sure to protect the dignity of others.

"He was," Rabbi Bulka added, "a righteous person in the profound sense of the term. A living Torah."

The August 8 presentation, immediately following the mournful fast of Tisha B'Av, was eminently fitting, the rabbi said, since the Torah presentation at once evoked painful memories of a truly righteous young man "taken from our midst at such a young age," but also offered consolation to the family and many friends in attendance.

Inherent in the consoling of Shabbat Nahmu is the promise of continuity, that after the desolation of Tisha B'Av, we focus on repair and rebuilding, the rabbi said. By giving a Torah in memory of their son, the Tallers effected a continuity of that which made Jay such an outstanding person, he concluded.

The presentation of the Torah in memory of Jay B. Taller is one way in which the Tallers are ensuring their beloved son's name will live on in perpetuity. As well, shortly after his passing, they established the Jay B. Taller Memorial Fund through the Ottawa Jewish Community Foundation, the proceeds of which will be directed to benefiting those community organizations which Jay held dear.

*Hadassah-WIZO annual eventSunday, Nov. 1 Bazaar expected to attract increased attendance

Debbie Baylin and Rhona Levine co-chairs of the 1987 Ottawa Hadassah-WIZO Bazaar, are busy planning the annual fundraising event. This year the Bazaar will be held on a Sunday, November 1, and is expected to draw even larger crowds than in past years.

The fashion auction, which was successfully introduced last year, will be repeated with a whole new collection of clothing and slotted to take place in the afternoon. The popular Celebrity and Silent Auctions will feature a wide selection of items on which to bid. Highlights of last year's auctions included a weekend at the Westin hotel and ballet slippers from the Kirov ballet.

A wide variety of merchandise will be available for the whole family. Booths featuring china, linens, handicrafts, toys, jeans and new and used clothing will be staffed by Hadassah-WIZO members, their families and friends.

Cabbage rolls and lokshin kugel are being added to the wide variety of blintzes, bagels, egg rolls and home baking available for sale.

Volunteer canvassers are currently approaching local merchants for donations that can be used at the three auctions or at the various booths. This merchandise helps spell the success of the Bazaar and donor response to date has been very good.

The theme for '87 Bazaar will be the celebration of the 70th Anniversary of Canadian Hadassah-WIZO. The festive atmosphere will be enhanced with balloons for the children, a magician and visits from favorite T.V. characters. Door prizes include $1,000. cash and a Panasonic microwave oven from Smily's Microwave Centre. The honoree is the Boys' and Girls' Club of Ottawa.

Donations from the general public can be dropped at the Bazaar Depot at 2658 Priscilla (rear of the Britannia Plaza) on October 4, 11 and 18 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Funds raised from this major undertaking are used to support day care centres, schools and youth clubs that Hadassah-WIZO sponsors in Israel and Young Judea in Ontario.

Anyone wishing to contribute to or assist with the Hadassah-WIZO Bazaar is asked to contact Debbie Baylin at 521-9092, Rhona Levine at 721-0477 or the Hadassah-WIZO office at 728-3784.

*Created in memory of Gilbert and Bess GreenbergTechnion research, student fund established by Ottawa Society

At the Technion's fall meeting at the Chateau Laurier on Wednesday, September 9, the Ottawa Research and Student Fund, in memory of Bess and Gilbert Greenberg, was formally established. A good turnout heard Dr. Shlomo Shalev speak on the "Bridges between Canada and the Technion Society".

Dr. Shalev, who is currently engaged in full-time research as Director of the Manitoba Cancer Treatment Research Foundation, spoke of his experiences during his twenty-year tenure as head of the Department of Bio-Medical Engineering at the Technion. While there, he established the Nuclear Engineering Department which developed nuclear power projects similar to those carried on at Atomic Energy of Canada. In 1976, he established the Bio-Medical Engineering Faculty, which graduates students in Medical Physics.

Dr. Shalev cited many instances where Canadian students, educated and trained at the Technion, went on, after graduation, to prestigious positions in multi-national corporations developing world-class products.

The Technion has established computer treatment plans for cancer patients. The computer decides the best plan of action and quantifies it into a radiation treatment program. This program is now being studied in greater detail at Atomic Energy of Canada's laboratories.

The latest technology being carried out at the Manitoba Research Centre, which began at the Technion, is the application of computer digital imaging in cancer research to assist doctors in carrying out therapy. The process has been developed to the stage where world-renowned Siemens Electronics Corporation is negotiating for the rights to market this product.

Dr. Shalev emphasized that the establishment of the Bess and Gilbert Greenberg Fund would further strengthen the partnership role between Canada and the Technion in recruiting talented academic personnel, providing sufficient research funds for future endeavors and procuring new high tech equipment for their laboratories.

Without proper funding, ideas cannot get off the drawing board into a marketing stage and it is only with the support of worldwide donations that the Technion can survive and grow.

Dr. S. Harold Laxer, of the Montreal Technion Office, presented Natalie Kudish with a scroll honouring her establishment of a Special Chair at the Technion in memory of her husband.

Donations to the Ottawa Research Fund are fully tax deductible and can be paid over five years. The Ottawa Fund has been initially targeted for $500,000., of which $350,000. has been pledged. More information on donating to the Ottawa Research and Student Fund and general information on the Technion Society can be obtained from Paul Bregman, 521-6790 (evenings).

Jews 2nd largest ethnic group in Toronto: census

TORONTO (JTA) — Jews are the second largest ethnic group in metropolitan Toronto, smaller only than the Italians, according to the latest census figures just released in a study by the Social Planning Council of Metropolitan Toronto.

The Canadian Jewish News reports that 97,820 Jews live here, based on 1981 census data. The population estimate listed in the "1986 Jewish Directory and Almanac" was significantly higher — 115,000.

The census figures put the Jewish concentration in metropolitan Toronto at 4.6 percent.

My New Year's Resolution

By Zelda Roodman

The High Holy Days have signaled the commencement of another Jewish Year. This is an occasion for us to reflect on our personal experiences during the old year. The purpose of this inventory is not to glorify our triumphs or to bemoan our failures, but rather to use the past to plan a better future for ourselves and our loved ones.

The New Year and the Day of Atonement are not reminders of national events. Rather they concentrate on the individual's relationship to God and to his or her fellowman. A dramatic portion of the Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur Services has been given to us by Maimonides in these words: "Look well to your souls and let there be betterment in your acts."

We must remember that charity is one of the most precious jewels in Israel's system of social ethics. This is the time to ask yourself, "How do I rate when it comes to contributing to our Jewish Community needs? Have I fulfilled the significance of Mitzvah?"

In Ottawa there is an instrument known as the Jewish Community Foundation which, through the Endowment Fund, ensures the strength and vitality of our community for present and future generations. Since its inception in 1971, the Foundation has provided generously for emergencies, worthy causes, and special needs both locally and internationally. In addition, the donors benefit from recognized tax shelters.

As time goes on, we anticipate that the Foundation will become one of the major sources of financing our local manifold agencies. The Foundation now has over three million dollars in capital funds which are invested in diversified securities, ranging from Canadian and Municipal bonds to debentures and mortgages issued by Public Companies. The investment policy is cautious and conservative; speculative issues are avoided.

The Foundation's goal is to provide a steady, increased flow of income required to meet the growing budgetary demands of an ever growing community. Due to increased commitment, we can no longer depend solely on annual campaigns for the resources needed to operate our local Agencies and to meet our obligations to Israel. For those of us who are concerned about the long-term continuity of the Jewish Community, surely our Foundation, with its Endowment Fund, is the most effective answer.

During the month of Tishrei, our prayers tell us that in order to atone for our sins, we should accept as one resolution, "I will perform Mitzvot." This philosophy is further substantiated by a famous American statesman who once stated: "In essentials, Unity; in non-essentials, Liberty; in all things, Charity."

Thank you for reading this article. Please contact Mrs. Zelda Roodman, of the Foundation's Development Committee, or Mr. Casey Swedlove, Executive Director, should you wish to consider the establishment of your own Endowment Fund.

It was a wonderful summer — the best the weatherman could order up for the series of successful outdoor activities for our residents both away and at home at Hillel Lodge.

Under the co-ordination of Hillel staff members Judy Seale and Ann Shinder with fullest co-operation of volunteers, full advantage of the weather was taken in planning the varied events throughout the summer days.

Several outdoor BBQ's were featured at the Lodge with the staff "cooking up a storm" to feed the appetites of not only the men and women of the Lodge, but the guests who happened to drop around with Carl Rothman, Steve Schneiderman and Elizabeth Richard fulfilling the chores of "chief cooks and bottle washers". A musical backdrop was provided by Ariel Arnoni and his accordion on one such occasion.

Of course, picnics and summertime are synonymous. The Women's Auxiliary organized several outdoor teas at the Lodge.

In addition, Evelyn Greenberg was host at her home on a sunny afternoon, and there was a special outing at the Rideau View Golf Club, with Dorothy Nadolny and Sylvia Saslove doing the honours. Entertainment was provided by Anne Steinberg, who led sing-songs and dancing led by Freda Lipson, Bert Klugsberg and other auxiliary volunteers completed a full day.

Another afternoon featured a special "Quebec adventure" at the Champlain Lookout. Tour guide Will Dagg brought the group to a log cabin for lunch prepared earlier by the Hillel kitchen staff. It was followed by a tour through the Gatineau area, where the group relaxed beside a quiet lake. A special thrill was provided by a "Bambi" deer which came out of the woods for a look-see at the excitement, and to offer an unspoken "Hello" from nature itself.

The annual picnic sponsored by Tele Shalom was held at Britannia Beach, with a bingo thrown in for good measure.

Hillel residents also participated at the Ontario Council of Therapeutic Recreation Picnic at Vincent Massey Park providing an opportunity for Hillel residents to mingle with men and women from similar Ottawa facilities. Singing, dancing, music and entertainment by a pair of clowns were among the events of the day.

Needless to say, the summer program did not end with outdoor activities. Hillel was alive with events in the Lodge. These will be dealt with in a forthcoming column. Space does not permit it at this time.

Hillel Past

Recently I wrote a piece to recall the birth of Hillel Lodge. It would be appropriate to also remind us of the original Board of Directors. They are:

Founders: Mrs. Abraham Lithwick and J.C. Horwitz, Q.C.

Officers 1965 - 1966: President, Jackie C. Horwitz, Q.C.; First Vice-President, Samuel Berger, Q.C.; Second Vice-President, Gilbert Greenberg; Treasurer, Abraham Shaffer; Assistant Treasurer, Norman Wolfe; Recording Secretary, Mrs. M. Sidney Green; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Benjamin Bean; President of Ladies Auxiliary, Mrs. Isaac Beiles.

Board of Directors: Mrs. J. Dover, Dr. Joseph Greenblatt, Mrs. Samuel Lepofsky, Hy Harris, Mrs. Simon J. Ritt, Ben B. Levin, Joseph Ages, Sidney Lithwick, Dr. M. Ralph Berke, David Loeb, Samuel Caplan, Dr. Samuel Mirsky, Ben Dworkin, Mervin Mirsky, Joe Feller, Abe Palmer, Jarvis Freedman, Henry Pass, M. Sidney Green, Paul Weiner.

Interesting facts about events and people welcomed by this column. Please write: Ben Dworkin, c/o Ottawa Jewish Bulletin, 151 Chapel Street, Ottawa, Ontario, K1N 7Y2.

Organization plans nationwide sale of song by Anne Steinberg

By Cynthia Engel

Finding herself caught in a potentially life-threatening situation last Dec. 24 served as the catalyst for singer-songwriter Anne Steinberg's muse.

Just a few weeks earlier the diminutive retailer, whose avocation is music, had been approached by The Children's Wish Foundation of Canada with a tall order: to compose a theme song for the organization. The raison d'être of the non-profit group is to give terminally ill children the joy of experiencing their fondest wish come true.

"Heavy stuff," says Steinberg, who had been wrestling with the concept day and night to no avail.

"Finally, when I was trying to make it home through that terrible ice storm I said, 'God, if you get me there I know I can do it now.' And I did."

Her song, A Wish for Life, enjoyed its debut at a gala evening at the Chateau Laurier recently at a benefit evening hosted by the Daughters of Penelope, Euphroclyne Chapter 292. The organization has chosen The Children's Wish Foundation as its charity project this year.

Steinberg has also recorded the song with her frequent singing companion and "musical sounding board", lawyer Steven Malek, a partner in the firm Shore, Davis and Malek, whose bass voice provides a perfect balance for her alto pitch.

Ottawa foundation chairman, policeman Pat Lowell, has hopes that the record will go national. Revenues realized from the sale of the record will be funnelled into The Children's Wish Foundation to grant a 'most wanted wish' to a young, terminally ill patient like Terry Linkert, 11, of Toronto, who fervently wished to meet and speak to Mickey Mouse. The foundation arranged the trip for the ecstatic youngster, whose illness claimed his life on the return trip home.

"It's a real goosebump type organization," Steinberg says.

"Kids don't get better, they just get their wish."

The Ottawa Jewish Community has enjoyed Steinberg's voice and accompanying guitar in solo performances, in duets with her aunt Shirley Steinberg, and as part of the Israella Singers and the Agudath Israel choir. As well, she has appeared as a soloist at the Penguin Cafe.

A Wish for Life, recorded by Steinberg and Malek at Ambiance Recording Studios, is available at Sam the Record Man, Herb & Spice (Wellington St.), Rockland Textiles, The Linen Warehouse, Hemingway's, and South Side Diner.

STATE OF ISRAEL BONDS

Chairman's Update

By Sol. B. Shinder
General Chairman,
Ottawa State of Israel Bonds

The year 5748 commences the eve of the Fortieth Anniversary of Israel's rebirth in 1948 and the end of the Twentieth Anniversary year of the re-unification of Jerusalem.

"These two historic events are two significant milestones on the road which the Jewish people have travelled to restore our sovereignty in our ancestral land. Frankly, that road has given us a deep sense of mutual purpose and common linkage".

Those were part of a message sent by President Chaim Herzog of Israel to the Israel Bond Leadership Conference which was recently held in Montreal. President Herzog also alluded to the fact that "we are engaged in a partnership which is mutually strengthening. We share a vision which derives from the love we all share for Israel and a determination to widen the horizons of Israel's future by reinforcing its economy."

The annual Conference was addressed by Israel's Finance Minister, Moshe Nissim, who gave an overview of Israel's remarkable economic recovery in recent years. He stated:

"Our policy aim is gradually to create a new climate for the Israeli economy, a climate in which investors will find the State of Israel attractive, with a liberal economy, where the free market will be governed by the private sector and subjected to market forces.

"I shall do my utmost to reduce our dependence on foreign aid and to strengthen our economic independence. We cannot rely on outside support indefinitely....

"You, as leaders of Israel Bonds, have an important contribution to make in attaining the economic goals of the State of Israel."

The partnership which was alluded to by the President of Israel, requires all of our participation in order to succeed.

The Yom Kippur Bond drive will be carried out once again this year in each of our synagogues along with similar drives in some 1100 congregations across Canada and the United States. The Rabbis of our Community have pledged the support of their congregants for this year's drive, please don't let them down. Signify your confidence in the partnership by investing in its future with the purchase of a Bond on Yom Kippur.

You can participate in the continuing heroic struggle of Israel

By Rabbi Saul I. Aranov

For too many centuries the Jewish people have dissipated their energies in many lands by functioning as communities in exile and in more recent times as disparate individuals, rather than by nurturing a program to achieve a national homeland. Only when the Jews began to express their national aspirations in a unified bond did the universal mission of Israel gain expression as prophesied by Isaiah. Particularly, today, when Jewry suffers from polarization it is vital for us to rally around Israel as a focal point for expressing our unity of purpose.

We already are the beneficiaries of this dream-state-come-true, for the past forty years. It is easy to consign to the history books the heroic struggle that brought the Jewish state into existence by the pioneering generations. Yet, the effort of creating the Jewish state-in-the-making is far from complete. While forty years may seem long in the lifetime of an individual it is little in the life of a nation.

Despite the continuous external threat to Israel's survival and the internal cultural tensions which threaten the fabric of the society, the economic burdens of inflation, unemployment and the social dislocations which come in their wake, Israel has managed, in miraculous fashion, to be a light to many developing nations throughout the Third World. Those nations came to realize that their bond with Israel ensures them of a more solid economic future without political strings attached. This service to mankind could be realized because the spiritual renaissance of Judaism is inextricably bound up with the technological progress of contemporary society, which is made possible by your partnership in this endeavour through the purchase of Israel bonds.

Just as the central drama of Yom Kippur transpired at the Jerusalem Sanctuary of old so does Modern Israel serve as a sanctuary in our time in a two-fold sense. First, it offers sanctuary for those of our brethren who are refugees from repressive societies such as the Eastern bloc, the Middle East and African countries. Secondly, it offers sanctuary for those in the West who quest for new spiritual frontiers to conquer, such as those young people and families who desire to make a total commitment to a complete Jewish lifestyle which Israel offers.

Association by investment in the Jewish State can help to assure the spiritual survival of the far-flung transcontinental Jewish communities in the diaspora, as Israel provides and trains educators who are involved in applying Judaism to relevant problems which confront the dynamic Jewish state and Diaspora Jewry.

While Israel renders a multitude of services to world Jewry and to many nations she is not rich in natural resources of the common variety. The greatest uncommon natural resource which Israel possesses transcends geographic boundaries for it is you, each individual Jew. Your personal investment in Israel bonds demonstrates your vote of confidence in our people and in our posterity. Israel continues to earn our trust. The Almighty teaches that the "land makes atonement possible for the people" — "ve-chee-pere-ad-matoh-amo" — so should the people actively be engaged in serving the Day of Atonement. This privileged opportunity is your Yom Kippur challenge.

Our sages taught that in the end of days all diaspora synagogues will be transported to Israel. Let us experience this by participating in the bond campaign here in our synagogues in Ottawa. May this year 5748 — "Tees-mach" in Hebrew, indeed, be a joyous year for our loved ones, and may peace prevail for all humanity.

Message from the Women's Division

By Zelaine Shinder
Women's Division Chairman
As Jews in Canada, Israel and throughout the world join in the observance of the High Holy Days, I extend to you, your families and to the Ottawa Jewish Community, warm greetings for the New Year.

This is a time for Jews everywhere to renew our resolve and commitment of solidarity, to resist the pressures of assimilation and to help in all ways possible to keep our Jewish state strong.

One of the ways in which Israel has been developed and kept strong and solvent has been through the outstanding support of Jewish communities such as ours in efforts to strengthen the economic infrastructure of the State of Israel.

One of the chief instruments of that support is the Yom Kippur State of Israel Bond campaigns, which have received warm and generous response from Jewish communities in Canada and the United States over the past 36 years.

This past year has seen continued stability in Israel's economy, thanks to that support as well as the commensurate sacrifices by the people of Israel.

High Holy Day subscriptions for Israel Bonds will help Israel expand investments in industry, create new jobs in development towns, and continue the nation's economic progress and growth.

I know that we understand the importance of our partnership with Israel, and as Chairman of the Ottawa Women's Division, I urge every Jewish woman in our Community to participate in this High Holy Day Campaign.

My warmest wishes for a healthy, happy and peaceful new year.

Shana Tova.

Joseph and Betty Feller Fund helps ensure community's future

By Ben Dworkin

If there is a couple in Ottawa who probably needs no introduction it is Joseph and Betty Feller. They know everyone — and almost everyone knows them.

Betty and Joseph recently joined the growing ranks of contributors who are helping build the Ottawa Jewish Community Endowment Fund to create a permanent source of income to assist our financial needs.

Giving is not new to this popular Ottawa couple.

They have not missed a year without offering financial support to the United Jewish Appeal or the purchase of bonds and other charitable requests.

They have also donated a Professors' Study Room to the Hebrew University on Mount Scopus in Jerusalem, and have provided a family endowment for perpetual student aid at the institution. In 1985 they were honoured with a plaque designating them as Founders of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Nor do their charitable works and affiliations cease when they leave here for their winter residence at Boca Raton, Florida.

In 1980 the Ottawa couple formed a highly successful chapter at Boca Raton and Delray, Florida, "The American Friends of the Hebrew University," which has since grown to become one of the most active chapters in the Southern United States, raising millions of dollars for the Hebrew University in Israel.

Locally, Joseph was among the original members of the executive of Hillel Lodge, and a leader in the founding of the Jewish Community Centre. He remained on the Board of Hillel Lodge for many years.

Their religious affiliations remain firm both in Ottawa and Florida. They are members and worshippers at both Machzikei Hadas and Agudath Israel Congregations in Ottawa, as well as B'nai Torah Synagogue in Boca Raton, and the Spanish-Portuguese Synagogue in Montreal. For many years they were also members of Beth Shalom Synagogue here.

In addition to their religious affiliation, Joseph and Betty have played active roles in both Jewish and non-Jewish organizations in the community.

Joseph has been a member of B'nai Brith throughout his adult life. In the general community, he has served as chairman of the Salvation Army Red Shield Campaign, and was on the Board of Ottawa Y.M.C.A. for a dozen years, as well as a director of the Ottawa Philharmonic Orchestra.

Betty was equally in the forefront of several women's organizations — Jewish and non-Jewish alike.

On the social side they are members of the Rideau View Golf Club here and the Del-Aire Country Club at Delray, Florida.

Joseph was born in Ottawa, the son of the late William and Eva Feller. He is probably best known for his prominence in the retail men's wear field. From a modest beginning — with Betty as his business "partner", he opened the

Joseph and Betty Feller

'Esquire' shop on Rideau Street with two assistants in 1937.

The modern 24,000 square foot "Joe Feller" store was established in 1955. It soon became synonymous with men's fashions.

"In the late 30s and 40s, Ottawa was relatively conservative in men's wear," Joseph recalls. "We promoted and succeeded in establishing a completely different concept of fashion in men's clothes, styling, colours and patterns."

In 1967 he opened a second store of 13,000 square feet in the St. Laurent Shopping Centre.

His clientele was diversified. From prime ministers, cabinet ministers, diplomats and celebrities — to the average man and youth about town.

His reputation and retailing skills spread abroad. He, and his business, were the subjects of articles and interviews — not only in local papers — but publications in the United States, Men's Wear of London, England, and even Izvestia in Moscow, Russia.

He spoke to retailers in New York, Los Angeles, Atlanta, Dublin, Ireland, as well as local groups and service clubs: Lion's International, Rotary Club, Kiwanis Club — etc., on the subject of retailing. His achievements were recognized with awards including a triple winner in the Ottawa Advertising and Sales Club (1951). Further the U.S. National Retail Merchant's Association conferred upon him awards for merit and outstanding advertising in the same year.

His other awards are too numerous to mention, but it would be remiss not to recall that he is past president of the Rideau Street Merchants' Association. On an international level he was a president of the National Retail Merchants' Association with headquarters in New York City, with a membership of over 11,000 major stores in Canada, the U.S.A. and 41 other countries.

Betty was born in Kiev, Russia and came to Ottawa as an infant with her widowed mother, the late Malca Goldman. She grew up in Ottawa and met and married Joseph in 1939. Their marriage was blessed with three children, Connie Gail, Ian Warren, and Donna Lee, and they have five grandchildren.

A bubbly, radiant, outgoing lady full of personality, Betty lightens and brightens wherever she enters and does much to bring love and understanding to all. She has added much to the Ottawa Jewish community, through her involvement in Hadassah, ORT, Women's B'nai Brith, Sisterhood, National Council of Jewish Women and many other facets of Jewish life.

The Officers and Directors of the Ottawa Jewish Community Foundation welcome the establishment of the Joseph and Betty Feller Endowment Fund and wish the couple many years of good health to enjoy seeing their Fund grow. The Joseph and Betty Feller Endowment Fund is open ended and family and friends may add to it at any time. The capital will be invested in perpetuity and the income each year will be distributed to charities in Ottawa that are dear to Betty and Joseph.

Bus service

Maimonides is pleased to announce expanded transportation service to accommodate students from all areas of the city.

The three buses in the fleet will service: Alta Vista, Hunt Club, Sandy Hill, West End, Centrepont, Fisher Glen, Arlington Woods, Craig Henry and Bayshore.

Door-to-door service is available to all these areas. The Alta Vista area has an additional shuttle communal stop. For additional information call the school at 820-9484.

Until Daybreak Stories from the kibbutz

Edited by Amos Oz

Hakibbutz Hameuchad Publishing House and the Institute for the Translation of Hebrew Literature.

In this anthology of stories portraying kibbutz life, editor Amos Oz tries to capture the essence of the land of Israel. Candidly, he speaks in his introduction of "a denuded and denuding land where the sullen climate and the back-breaking toil and the resulting nights strip a man of all disguises. Where a man is tested in the nakedness of his soul without mercy, without amnesty." Oz has brought together voices concerned with reaching out to solve social, educational and economic problems. But he is also determined to show by his selection that the "kibbutz is an experiment which has not failed."

Yossel Birstein

Dubin's Brother. Here we see the central European personality supplanted on Israeli soil as a series of complicated family facts embroil the central characters in a search for an elusive inheritance. This story reminds that an old way of life can never be totally abandoned, only constantly renewed in the different lifestyle of the kibbutz.

The vibrancy of this collection is cleverly laced with an attempt of the contributors to search for a common thread in the vitality of kibbutz life, one that needs constant re-evaluation to protect this microcosm of Israeli reality.

Young Israeli Arabs influenced by Khomeini

There is not one story that does not depict the miracle of the land. The kibbutz as the centre of Israeli life is the theme explored in the title story, Until Daybreak by Moshe Shamir. A kibbutznik's wife wishes to leave him and the kibbutz for the city but he refuses to follow her. He is a workaholic, as attached to his winnowing machine as he is to his wife.

Dan Shevit's, On the Last Bus, addresses the extended family life of the kibbutz. An eccentric old shoemaker has an unexpected visit from his beautiful niece. A couple who has always looked out for the old man finds themselves in an awkward situation as the kibbutz male members are intoxicated with the niece's charm and beauty.

Amos Oz's contribution, The Way of the Wind, is a chilling story of a man who sacrifices family life for ideology. His personal choice, ironically, results in a personal sacrifice that he never planned to make. He is defied by the law of nature and destiny and metaphorically by the laws inherent in the philosophy of kibbutz life.

Perhaps the most delightful story, a convoluted ironic tale, is Yossel Birstein's

TEL AVIV, (JTA) — Sheffy Gabai, the eminent Arab affairs correspondent of Maariv, reported recently that the number of young Arabs in the administered territories who are adopting Khomeini's doctrine is growing year to year.

They are organized in cells throughout the territories and occasionally try to intimidate other Moslem believers, Gabai says, quoting a Moslem cleric in East Jerusalem following the recent capture of a terrorist squad that planned to plant a car-bomb in Jerusalem.

According to the cleric, the young Khomeini followers in the territories are heavily financed by the Iranian leadership, which wants to set up a Khomeinist core in both Jordan and the territories.

It is known that Hizbullah leaders in Lebanon have received permission from Iran to cooperate with Fatah in perpetrating terrorist attacks in Israel and in kidnapping foreigners under the rubric of "Al-Jihad Al-Islami for the Liberation of Palestine."

It was under this name that two recently apprehended terrorist squads operated in Israel: the car-bomb squad and the squad that carried out the Dung Gate attack late last year, the Maariv reporter said.

The newly-recruited Khomeinists are often past members of Islamic movements which operate freely in the territories and do not rule out the use of firearms in the belief that only in this way can the Islamic revolution in the region be fomented.

The majority of the Moslems in Israel and the territories belong to moderate trends and reject the attempts of the Khomeinists to impose their will.

Popular emissary has returned to JNF post

Lt. Col. (Res.) Yaacov Perez, who served with great success as Fund Raising and Educational Emissary to Jewish National Fund of Canada from 1978 to 1982, has returned to Montreal as the newly appointed Jerusalem Emissary for the Eastern Region and the Atlantic Provinces. The appointment was recently announced by Michael Goldstein, Executive Vice President of JNF of Canada.

Lt. Col. Yaacov Perez

Perez, who retired from the Israel Defence Forces with the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel in 1978 after 22 years of continuous service, is a popular figure in communities throughout Canada. Following his return to Israel in 1982, he served on Missions on behalf of the World Union of North African Jewry to the United States, France and Morocco, in addition to operating a family commercial enterprise in Israel.

In announcing the appointment, Michael Goldstein said: "We are particularly pleased that Yaacov (who is fluent in English, French and Hebrew), has become available to JNF of Canada at this time. In his previous years of service in Canada, he made a multitude of friends and learned a great deal about the Canadian Jewish community. In Israel, as a volunteer he was concerned with Keren Kayemeth's work particularly in the Northern Galil Region. This places him in an ideal position to bring a fresh interpretation of the impact of our efforts, to Jewish families in Eastern Canada."

Lt. Col. and Mrs. Perez will reside in Montreal. They have three sons, two are currently serving in the Israel Defence Forces.

and ethics of the Jewish people.

Being Jewish has always meant accepting community responsibility. This responsibility has enabled us to endure as a people and build a nation. For the past 50 years, that responsibility has had a name. The United Jewish Appeal.

Because we're responsible, we've worked to provide a new life for the Jews who fled Ethiopia. We've worked to meet the growing social needs in Israel. In times of peace and in times of war. And we're working every day to rebuild deteriorating neighborhoods, to educate the underprivileged and to make food grow in barren deserts.

The UJA continues to work to make sure the responsibility we feel as Jews becomes the help our people need.

Jewish.

It's belief and responsibility and action.

Tanz-Weinberg family's donation to U of T will aid Alzheimer's research

By Ben Kayfetz
TORONTO (JTA) — Due to a $4 million donation from the Tanz-Weinberg family, the University of Toronto will get a $16 million research laboratory to study degenerative brain diseases such as Alzheimer's, the fourth leading cause of death in Canada.

Mark Tanz, 55, now a resident of the Bahamas, his sister Marilyn Weinberg and his brother, plastic surgeon Dr. Mitchell Tanz, both of Toronto, have pledged the money to the new centre and promised to help the university raise another $7 million from friends and business associates in memory of their mother Gertrude, who died of Alzheimer's last year. The Alzheimer's Association of Ontario, largely made up of relatives of Alzheimer's victims, has promised to raise another $5 million over 12 years. The new centre will be located in the University's former Botany Building, which will be renamed the Tanz Neurosciences Building. More than 140 brain researchers will be linked with the centre.

REFLECTIONS on the BEN-GURION Era

by Michel M.J. Shore

A Centennial Year Draws to a Close — A New Beginning Dawns on Israel

Part I

A year has elapsed in celebrating the life of David Ben-Gurion and the legacy he has left.

In this year, the 100th anniversary of his birth, what remains with me, after a year of articles I have written, are not only reflections but also impressions, some of which I would like to review with you as they are of lasting and particular significance to Israel, to Jews and to each community in which we live at this specific time in our history.

Modern Israel is still at the dawn of its existence and the ancient people that we are, and the ancient land from which we originate, were bridged in large measure by David Ben-Gurion and his entourage which I have described.

Chapters are being written each day in which each one of our lives is inscribed whether we are active or passive, leading to the strengthening of the State or its weakening. With the following words, I continue my impressions and do not conclude so that we continue always reflecting together on a strong and ethical State.

No commentary on Ben-Gurion's thought, direction and outlook is as powerful as his own words which will leave us all with reflections once we have internalized them. In this last article divided into two parts, I reiterate previous excerpts which exemplify the spirit of Ben-Gurion and of those who influenced him. They captivate the imagination to action:

In conversation with an interviewer shortly before his death, Ben Gurion said: "First, never forget that historically this country belongs to two races...Second, remember the Arabs drastically outbred us, and to ensure survival, a Jewish state must at all times maintain within her own borders an unassailable Jewish majority. (In 1949, when Yigal Alon pleaded with him to allow the army to capture the West Bank, Ben-Gurion replied, "If Israel took over the West Bank, what would it do with all the Arabs? If it made them Israeli citizens, Israel would no longer be a Jewish state. If it denied them citizenship, it would no longer be a democratic state. And if it chased them out, it would no longer be a civilized state"). Third, the logic of all this is that to get peace, we must return in principle to the pre-1967 borders..." ("In principle" meant the exception of the entire city of Jerusalem and the Golan Heights, which he specified, respectively, to those who led him across the Temple Mount to the Western Wall, immediately after the Old City's capture, and to Yitshak Navon, after he had arranged for Ben-Gurion to be flown by helicopter above the Heights.) Peace is more important than real estate. Militarily defensible borders, while desirable, cannot by themselves guarantee our future...Real peace with our neighbours, mutual respect and even affection — that is our only true security. Then together we could turn the Middle East into a second Garden of Eden and one of the great creative centers of the Earth."

"To David Ben-Gurion — at your orders he fought, and at your orders he fell; may your name be blessed." As he read the dedication from a parent of a soldier who fell, Ben-Gurion, a man not given to expressing his emotions, covered his face with his hands and in the solitude of the moment looked back and thought.

On this August, 1948 evening, Moshe Gurari, a colleague, discovered the Prime Minister in his office where he had taken refuge from a reception for visiting Zionist leaders. Ben-Gurion found the mood of celebration at the reception unbearable. He was speaking, and yet wasn't speaking, to the intruder. It was as if Ben-Gurion was in the room alone, or, perhaps, surrounded by shadows.

"You know, sometimes I attend soldiers' funerals or take part in meetings of bereaved parents, and I always wonder: no one has yet insulted me, no one has tried, in his grief, to throw a stone at me. No one has shouted at me and called through his pain: 'You wanted a Jewish state and we are paying the price for it; we have lost our sons!'"

Ben-Gurion continually pleaded with and tried to justify to himself the death of all those sons. After the United Nations' 1947 Resolution, calling for steps to be taken for the establishment of a State, Israel was invaded; the Jerusalem population was attacked. "Our neighbours declared themselves our enemies and invited us to plunge into the sea to abandon even that bit of land the whole world recognized as our own. And they set out to conquer us..."

"It is our duty to tell the powers of the world without exception, with all the political humility of a small people and all the moral strength of a son of the Jewish people: the Jewish people in its Land will not be like sheep led to the slaughter...What Hitler did to six million helpless Jews in the ghettos of Europe, no persecutor will do...in their homeland."

Tekiah! We have to stop the name calling 5748: For whom does the collective shofar sound?

By Rabbi William Berkowitz (JTA) It is the particular genius of each Jewish holiday and holy day that a unique symbol signifies its meaning and message. One need only think of Chanukah with its menorah, Passover with its matzoh, Purim with its megillah and grogger, Sukkot with its sukkah, Simchat Torah with its dancing and Shavuot with the Torah.

Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur are best symbolized by the shofar. Throughout these festivals, the shofar's raw, sharp and shrill blasts remind us of the meaning and message of the Days of Awe. The great sage Maimonides put it best when he said that the shofar is meant to "awaken us from our slumber, especially those who forget the truth amidst the illusions of the times."

As world Jewry welcomes the year 5748, for whom does its collective shofar sound? What truths must we be reminded of, and awakened to, especially as we look back over the year past? A brief review of the year's events and trends clearly sets forth an agenda for action — and for shofar-sounding.

The religious wars of the Jews: We have been witness to increased divisions and divisiveness between Jews — battles between those who believe and those who don't believe, as well as between those who believe and those who believe differently. Be it in Israel or the Diaspora, this "war of the Jews" can only sap our strength and destroy our unity while it denies our pluralism. "Tekiah!" We have to stop the name-calling, the stone-throwing, and sit down and talk. The American Jewish Heritage Committee held this past year a national dialogue with leaders of American Jewry of different denominations to explore differences. Something like that should take place — in public — in every Jewish community.

Anti-Semitism and Holocaust memories: Even as the distance between our generation and the Holocaust grows each year, the Holocaust's memory and presence remain. In this one year we have witnessed the trials of Barbie and Demjanjuk; the deportation of Karl Linas and his subsequent death; the death of Rudolf Hess; and l'affaire Waldheim. Each day seemingly brings forth a new book on the Holocaust or a shattering film such as Shoah.

Clearly the Holocaust still weighs heavily on us, even as the disturbing presence of anti-Semitism — in Japan, Austria and Arab countries or among extremist groups in the United States — lives after Auschwitz. The Holocaust we must not forget; because of anti-Semitism we must remain ever-vigilant.

The crisis of Soviet Jewry: The apparent new Soviet policy of "glasnost" (openness) has still not opened the gates for Soviet refuseniks. Our community has received a variety of mixed signals that tinge our optimism with wariness.

Fewer and fewer Soviet Jews have been allowed to emigrate. And while we must be open to the opportunities which the Soviet regime might provide for the exit of Jews, we also must continue to pressure them and our government — especially during future summit meetings — to match their public relations proclamations with policy changes that allow Soviet Jews to leave.

Israel at 40: As Israel reaches a major birthday, we have witnessed strains between it and American Jewry over the Pollard incident, the Iran-Contra involvement and Jewish identity legislation. Yet these strains are really strengths, for they indicate the maturing of our relationship.

Indeed, as Israel will continue to struggle with the peace progress, with the uncertain future of the West Bank and its Arab v. Jewish demography and with media mistreatment, our support — morally, politically, spiritually and with our tourist dollars — takes on even greater significance. All American Jews who have not visited the Jewish State should make it their business to share her joy during her 40th birthday.

Jewish-Christian relations: As the Pope visits the United States, Jewish-Catholic relations, which this year were strained by controversies including Edith Stein's beatification, the Pope's non-mention of Jews at Maidanek, the idea of a convent at Auschwitz and the Pontiff's meeting with Waldheim, point to the imporance of greater dialogue, education and understanding.

The Pope's recent letter underscoring the specific Jewish tragedy of the Holocaust was a good first step. Recognition of Israel by the Vatican would be a most important one.

In addition, Jewish relations with evangelicals and with Protestant groups, who are lukewarm concerning Israel, takes on greater importance. We Jews flourish best in an atmosphere of interfaith amity, and the new year calls on us to foster that.

We must also renew ourselves as a Jewish community, deepening our own personal Jewish commitments of identity and education in the face of challenges of modernity and assimilation.

In the final analysis, when someone asks "For whom does the shofar sound?" the answer is not only in the areas above. It ultimately is: The shofar sounds for you.

George Bernard Shaw's 'Shofar Blast' on Jews

By Joseph I. Sargon
(JTA) "The Jews are worse than my own people, the Irish, who still want to be the chosen race — chosen by Lord Balfour. They can go to Palestine and stew in their own juice. The rest had better stop being Jews and start being human beings."

"The day of races and nations is over; the future belongs to the citizens of the world that they are no better than other people... You asked for a 'Shofar Blast' and now you have got it."

These were the words of the celebrated writer George Bernard Shaw, told to the Jewish press just before Rosh Hashanah about 50 years ago in what became known as the "Shofar Blast."

His criticism of Jews are strongly attacked by the Jewish community.

Jews were at least as upset by his statement upon emergence from the Soviet Union: "The world has made peace with the Jew, but the Jew refuses to make peace with the world."

Soon after, Shaw arrived in Bombay during a world cruise. Naturally, as editor of the Jewish Tribune newspaper there, I wanted to draw Shaw's attention to the storm caused by his "Shofar Blast" while obtaining his views on Zionism as a result of his recent visit to Palestine.

Reputedly unfriendly

The luxurious liner on which he sailed anchored on a bright, sunny morning. Shaw was said to be not very friendly toward journalists, as I was warned when I boarded the liner unannounced. However, he greeted me heartily and appeared to be aware of the purpose of the call. At first he said he hadn't the time for any interview, but his interest was soon evoked and he readily answered a volley of questions — and prolonged his "Shofar Blast."

Although more than 76 years old, he appeared energetic and possessed piercing, sparkling eyes and a clear complexion. His cynicism and scintillating humor had not left him.

He requested that I accompany him on his way to shore. He was at first reluctant to comment on the reaction to the "Shofar Blast," but he was persuaded to expound.

He explained that he was not in favor of the Jews being a separate entity but rather that "they should assimilate with the rest of the people among whom they dwell."

What did he mean by "The rest had better stop being Jews and start being human beings"? Are the Jews not human beings?

"The Jews should cease styling themselves the 'Chosen People of God,'" he replied. "They should not despise the Gentiles and the Gentiles the Jews. They should not have the same superiority complex as my own people the Irish."

What did he think of the Jewish problem and what did he recommend as the best solution?

'No Jewish problem'

"There is no Jewish problem," he answered. He added, "I do not think that there is anything extraordinary in the Zionist movement."

I asked if his recent visit to Palestine changed or influenced his conception of the Zionist ideal.

He replied: "I did not go around very much, and what I saw was houses being erected. I was not inspired by what I saw. Jerusalem is not a spiritual place and the Jews must not think that God is confined to Jerusalem alone. The Jewish God is old-fashioned; Jerusalem should be like Sheffield or Leeds (England). There is no God who is not equally in any other country."

Commenting on the Balfour Declaration, he stated: "It was all right for the Jews, but not for the Arabs. The declaration was made on account of the invaluable service rendered by an eminent Jew" — Chaim Weizmann, who, he humorously remarked — "surprisingly refused any monetary consideration, and who asked that Palestine be established as the national home of the Jews."

No historical right

"Don't you think the Jews have an historical right to Palestine?" I asked.

"None whatsoever," he replied, "just as the English seized India, the Jews seized Palestine, and what did they do — just fight among themselves. The Jews have always been ungovernable and are revolutionists. Have you not read Josephus' 'History of the Jews'? The Jew is the most ferocious fighter and not at all peace-loving; the Jews hew their enemies to pieces."

I rebutted: "Nowhere in their history has it been so reported and on the contrary they have always known to be a peace-seeking people, as can be evidenced from the pages of the Bible and the Talmud. Peace is essentially a Jewish teaching."

He replied: "So do Gandhi and Jesus, who was also a Jew, teach, but how many follow these teachings? The Jew has to live by his brains all the time."

Here Shaw struck a note of warning: "Jews must hold their own in Palestine; not even Great Britain or any other nation helps them in the realization of the objective of the Balfour Declaration; they must show strategy if they want to advance."

"Are you an anti-Zionist?" I asked.

"Certainly not," was the answer.

"Don't you think that during the course of the last 10 years, due to Zionist endeavors, Palestine has been entirely transformed as a result of which the Arabs also have benefited and the country has become more habitable?" I inquired.

He replied, "Just as Great Britain makes capital of the fact and always keeps on talking of what she had done for India, so also the Zionists lay very great stress on their achievements due to Jewish capital."

I asked if Shaw thought Jewish and Arabs would ever lie amicably.

"I cannot say anything," he answered.

Being a man of letters his attention was drawn to the Hebrew University, Jewish education and culture. "I am not in favor of Jewish culture," he said. "What is Jewish culture? Belief in Jehovah. It should be destroyed; it should revive real, European modern scientific culture; the Hebrew University is a contradiction in terms; so also are Oxford and Cambridge."

So I asked, "How do you account for the survival of the Jew?"

"On account of his vitality and ability; it is very difficult to get rid of him," he stated.

Did he think Jews had any special mission to perform?

"It is all a myth," he said. A large majority are misguided in the thought that they are the 'Chosen people of God'."

The conversation turned to anti-Semitism. He said "the Jews should cease despising the Gentiles. The Jew is still proud of his brains and power, still arrogant; still has the 'Chosen people' superstition." To best combat anti-Semitism, he continued, "The Jew should go ahead and not have any care."

And what of the anti-Semitic excesses in Germany?"

"I deplore them: the people are silly and wild," he declared. "The Jews will be Hitler's ruin in the long run. Hitler is terribly handicapped by his anti-Semitism, which is a crazy fad and not a political system. The Jews will be his ruin in the long run, even if they perish with him — especially if enough of them perish with him."

Joseph I. Sargon is a former managing editor of The Jewish Tribune, Bombay, India.

An Open Letter to the Russian/Canadian Jews

As you know, we were tremendously privileged to have Anatoly Schachransky in our city, on September 15th. This event was truly organized as a last moment occurrence, and there were no mailings to give wide publicity to the event. I deeply regret that Mr. Schachransky, who is so meaningful to Russian-born Canadians, was missed by many. To me this was a very personal sorrow, and I wish to express my deep regrets to you. Had I known in time, I might have been able to at least call around to invite you to attend. Please do forgive this egregious error. I will never forget the Schachransky Schecheyanu evening done by the Russians. There is really little to add, but to express my deepest regrets, and to wish you one and all a L'shana Tova.

Sincerely,
Elaine Rabin

A Tribute to an Outstanding Volunteer

— Louis Finkelstein —

By Valerie Terkel,
Coordinator of Kasher Meals on Wheels

It is with great sorrow that I am writing these lines... It has been nearly eight years since the Jewish Social Services Agency was established and with it the Shopping Service. The Shopping Service runs bi-weekly in the West End. Basically a driver takes four or five ladies shopping. This driver was Lou Finkelstein...

Mr. Finkelstein always tried to accommodate the ladies; for example if a Friday was a holiday, he took them shopping on Thursday.

Very few times did Mr. Finkelstein cancel, and then he was always apologizing...

Lou Finkelstein passed away on August 23. He will be greatly missed by all of us. We will always remember Lou Finkelstein, his kindness and generosity. Our deepest sympathy to his family; may they be spared from other sorrows.

Kosher Meals on Wheels

By Elaine Rabin

I don't often take pen to paper in this column, but occasionally I feel one of our programs merits special consideration that I think should be shared with the community. The Kosher Meals on Wheels project began in 1982 with a New Horizons Grant, and under the auspices of the National Council of Jewish Women, the Women's Auxiliary of Hillel Lodge, the Lodge kitchen staff, and this Agency. Through the years the program has grown from a twice-a-week venture to four times per week. Each day Hillel Lodge prepares an additional 25 meals (they prepare 46 for the residents), so there is almost a 50% increase in production. I would like to pay special tribute to the National Council of Jewish Women who have maintained this project of feeding the frail elderly, the convalescent or those in crisis. I can think of few Mitzvot which command greater respect than to offer sustenance to those in need. National Council has undertaken this project in other cities across Canada, and we all owe them a profound debt of gratitude for recognizing the importance of assisting those at risk. Council, along with some of the members who deliver meals, cannot be praised sufficiently for these superb efforts. The proof is in the pudding — this past year, Council along with the others served close to 4,000 meals — quite an accomplishment. May we continue to serve the community together for many years to come in this special endeavour.

Taking stock of the past year

The significant events of 5747: an overview

By Rabbi Ezra Boyarsky (JTA) In line with Jewish tradition, we take leave of the outgoing year 5747 in a mood of serious reflection and scrupulous stocktaking.

Three categories of events from the past year had repercussions on Jewish life and most likely will have far-reaching effects on the destiny of the Jewish people: religious, political and Jewish-Catholic relations.

First, the Knesset rejected in July an amendment to Israel's Law of Return — to the delight of the Reform and Conservative rabbinate in the U.S. Note that among those voting on this Jewish identity issue were Arab and Druze Members of Knesset.

Law of Return

The Law of Return provides for immediate Israeli citizenship — upon request — to any individual born of a Jewish mother, or to a convert to Judaism, without qualifying the term "conversion." Aside from the obvious danger of creating religious chaos, there is the concomitant risk that the law will lead to unavoidable debilitation and creeping dilution of the Jewish people.

In order to avert such attrition, Israel's religious political parties, backed by Israeli and U.S. Orthodox movements, have sought to amend the law so that the conversion would be in accordance with the strict requirements of the centuries-practiced Jewish law. The religious parties view the loss of their amendment as a temporary setback and are determined to reintroduce it at a more politically expedient time.

Rupture and endanger

The spokesmen for the Conservative and Reform movements in the U.S. continuously warn that the passage of the amendment would "rupture the unity of the Jewish people and endanger the survival of Judaism." It is indeed ironic that those very spiritual leaders who have already created divisiveness in Jewish life should be so solicitous of the unity in the House of Israel and its survival.

If Jewish survival so concerns the Conservative and Reform leaders, their attention should be called to the grim facts of reality: that it is the galloping process of unprecedented assimilation, the massive defection of Jewish youth and the alarming increase of intermarriage in this land, and not the revision of the Law of Return, that pose a real imminent threat to Jewish survival. These are the overriding problems that should preoccupy them and all American Jews, regardless of their religious persuasion.

Pope Paul and Waldheim

The second category is Pope John Paul II's audience last June with Kurt Waldheim in the face of allegations that the President of Austria was personally involved with the deportations of Jews and partisans in Greece and Yugoslavia to the death camps. Waldheim allegedly did this as an officer in a Nazi military unit during World War II.

Despite the wave of protests and appeals by Israel's Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir and major American and West European Jewish organizations for the pontiff to call off the meeting, he ignored them and rolled out the apostolic red carpet as scheduled.

In a full-page ad in The New York Times, the American Jewish Congress addressed the Pope, among others: "Has your Holiness dealt with the indifference of the Catholic Church in Europe to the fate of the Jews during World War II? Not a word has been uttered in any of your papal visits to the various countries and to the death camps."

Early last June, when the Pope visited Maidanek, where 800,000 Jewish men, women and children were gassed, he mentioned 14 nationalities but failed to mention the Jews, the main victims of the atrocities.

By simply asserting that he received Waldheim in his capacity as head of state and not as a private Austrian citizen, under a cloud of incriminating war activities, the Pope is resorting to semantic juggling which cannot wash his indefensible act.

This regrettable gesture — a veritable subterfuge to reinvest Waldheim, who is unwelcome in the U.S., with a cloak of respectability and implied impunity is a desecration of the memory of the Shoah victims and a blatant affront to the Jewish people and free world.

As a result of the announcement by the Synagogue Council of America and the American Jewish Congress that they will not participate in the Miami meeting in September when the Pope plans a visit to the U.S., he met in the Vatican with Jewish spokesmen.

Finally, there is Israel. Prior to the successful results of the Six Day War, Israel's boundaries were an open invitation to the Arab states to cut Israel in two. As a result of her conquest in 1967 of the Gaza Strip, Judaea, Samaria and Golan Heights, Israel today has defensible borders in the south, east and north, respectively.

Most trusted ally

Prior to the Six Day War, the U.S. was vacillating in its relationship to Israel. Today America is Israel's most trusted ally because of Washington's recognition that Israel is a military power with technological know-how and that her strategic position in the Middle East is a major factor of U.S. strength and influence in that region.

Israeli Foreign Minister Shimon Peres, possessed by an "idee fixe" that the only solution to the Israeli-Arab problem is an international peace conference, is beating the bushes around world capitals to win support for his ill-conceived brainchild.

Unity partnerships

Since the ascendancy of Menachem Begin to Israel's premiership in 1977, the Labor Alignment has failed to recoup the political power it enjoyed for many years. The best it could do was to form the present unity partnership with Likud.

Peres hopes to create an irreconcilable rift between him (Labor) and Shamir (Likud) — who is categorically opposed to the conference — to dissolve the unity government and call for national elections.

But what is inherently dangerous in Peres' peace plan is that he strongly favors Israel's surrender of the West Bank and Gaza — conquered in 1967 at the cost of thousands of Israeli lives — to create a Palestinian state. All this for an illusory peace with the Arabs that he well knows will be short-lived and undermine the very existence of the Jewish state.

Peres also knows or should know that the Arab goal is not a Palestinian state per se that they could have established when the very same territories were in their possession prior to the Six Day War. Their real design to dismantle Israel, a design that is universally recognized as a pipedream.

Special needs classes Sundays

The Talmud Torah Afternoon School offers a class for Jewish children with special needs every Sunday morning, (9:30-11:45 a.m.) at 881 Broadview under the guidance of a qualified teacher. Children enjoy a learning environment which makes him/her comfortable with and knowledgeable about Shabbat, Jewish holidays, Bible stories and Israel. Interested parents should call Doris Bronstein, 722-8827.

Liv Ullman portrays Ida Nudel in film

By Michael Solomon
MONTREAL (JTA) — At a press conference at the 11th World Film Festival held here recently, Norwegian actress Liv Ullman, who plays a character named "Ida" loosely based on Soviet refusenik Ida Nudel in an Italian production, Farewell to Moscow, said that what she calls a "pivotal" scene was mysteriously cut from the film, which was not the one she was promised to be shown. The film's producer, Enrico Roseo, pleaded innocent to the charge and dissociated himself from the clipped version.

In Italy, the film was shown in a fuller version. There, Ullman won a Donatelli Award for Best Actress for the role. Ullman said she told the producer she would not promote the film if it were not the complete version, and he reportedly promised her the Montreal version would not be cut. (However, observers pointed out that it is common to cut films for the North American market, and that Roseo's disclaimer of responsibility might possibly have been a publicity stunt to attract media attention.)

At the Montreal festival, the film won an award from the Ecumenical Jury, which said of the film that "in spite of certain difficulties, (it) pleads eloquently in favour of individual rights through the recall of an actual case."

Seven years, five writers

The seven-year-long production of the film included many changes of scriptwriters and directors. Based on a story by Roseo and Marcello Andrei, the film's final version boasted a screenplay by five writers: Niccolò Badalucco, Lucia Drudy Demby, Robert Balchus, Eric Bericovici and Mauro Bolognini, who was the last of about three directors.

The film includes a highly fictional portrayal of the well-known Soviet dissident, including a story of a marriage and a lover unknown to those familiar with Nudel, despite the fact that Nudel's sister in Israel, Elana Fridman, reportedly went to Rome to consult on the film.

"This is a film I really care about," Ullman told reporters. "Not only does it have all the emotions and range an actress dreams about, but it is telling a very important story. On one level, it is a moving case history of an actual refusenik; and on a greater level, it's telling the story of repression in a totalitarian regime."

Pro Jewish activist

In the scene cut, which appeared at the end in the original version, Ida expresses her feelings about how the Soviets restrict her physical movements, but "will never be able to control her thoughts," said the Oscar-winning Ullman, a non-Jewish activist on behalf of Soviet Jewry and human rights who serves as assistant secretary general of the United Nations for the protection of children. Ullman said that for her, Nudel is the victim "of an ideology, and not of the Russian people."

Ullman said that several scene sequences toward the film's end appear abnormal, particularly when Ida returns from Siberia "looking for her husband and her lover." The film says that Ida was divorced. While Ullman never met Nudel, she says she got her inspiration from Nudel's courage in face of years of suffering despite her innocence.

Nudel, who asked Soviet authorities for permission to emigrate to Israel to join her sister, was imprisoned and then exiled to Siberia. She lives in exile in the Moldavian city of Bendery, harassed and followed.

Roseo said he believes pro-Soviet opinion in Europe has caused the film to be boycotted and delayed in the last seven years of production. He also suggested that the Cannes Film Festival rejected an earlier version of the film on political grounds.

Roseo said, "The fortunate Nudel has had bad luck, even in the movie about her life."

Farewell to Moscow opens in

New York in November. Whether the original version or the censored one will be shown, nobody can answer.

Jewish themes

Some 20 Jewish-theme and Israeli films were presented at the film festival. The films include Rock and Roll Rabbi, by Alexander Goldstein, a young Toronto filmmaker, and Mending the World, a touching story of the Holocaust by Harry Rasky, told in paintings and sculptures intermingled with the thoughts of philosophy professor Emil Fackenheim.

Among the films, outstanding are Berlin-Tel Aviv by Tzippi Prope, an Israeli-born director, telling the story of a young Berlin Jew who made his escape to Palestine during the war and did not find peace of mind until he forced a Jewish kapo, guilty of selling Jewish lives to prolong his own, to commit suicide.

A big attraction was the Israeli-made movie Late Summer Blues, dealing with Israeli youths during the War of Attrition, waiting to be drafted into the army in the summer between their matriculation examinations and the army call-up. When the news of the first boy killed at the Suez Canal reaches them, they ask themselves whether "to die for one's country" is the answer.

The Testament, a French film drawn from Nobel laureate Elie Wiesel's novel of the same title, packed full theatres during the festival. So has Weddings in Galilee, a Belgian production dealing with the conflict between Jewish military authorities and local Arabs during an Arab wedding. This is the first time in memory that so many films with Jewish themes have been shown at the World Film Festival, which ran from August 20 through September 1.

In every single generation...
The 40th Anniversary of the State of Israel

We are standing at the beginning of a new year. A special new year — the 40th year since the establishment of the State of Israel. Forty years ago, it was still a dream, which had been held for thousands of years by so many Jews, until a few decided to stop dreaming and turn it into a reality.

Forty years ago, so many "prophets" didn't give the Jewish state more than 40 hours to exist before being destroyed by its enemies.

Forty years ago, survivors of the flames of Europe shared the agony and the triumph of the creation of Israel, while struggling to be part of it.

For forty years now Jews have been born into a world in which Israel, a country of their own, is an existing fact. A third generation is growing up in Israel and in the diaspora with the idea that Israel always was and always will be.

The truth is that all of us, most of the time, take Israel for granted, and see it as a natural phenomenon rather than a human creation, born and built through a great pain and effort.

Of all the dangers that Israel has to face on her 40th Anniversary, this complacency seems to be one of the most harmful.

Of all the Shana Tova wishes that we can think of for the State of Israel, this is our deepest wish: that world Jewry will never take Israel's existence for granted but will continue to participate in its ongoing creation.

Once again, we can use the wisdom of our ancestors who realized this danger, and left us this important command: "In every single generation it is man's duty to regard himself as if he had gone forth from Egypt". (Passover Haggadah)

If we could just pass this command and this commitment to the State of Israel on to our sons and grandsons — Davenu!

Arts Alive speaker gives teen advice

Dr. Saul Levine, syndicated columnist of Youth Clinic, will be giving a lecture at Arts Alive '87 on Sunday, November 22 at the Jewish Community Centre.

Drawing from his vast experience treating and studying teenagers, Dr. Levine will share his wisdom on how to deal with growing pains of adolescence. His newest book, Tell Me It's Only A Phase, is a collection of letters from parents seeking his advice, and his responses to them.

Dr. Levine is a Professor of Psychiatry at the University of Toronto and Head of the Department of Psychiatry at the Sunnybrook Medical Centre. He received his medical degree from McGill University and did his training in psychiatry at Stanford University.

Arts Alive '87 will open Saturday, November 21 with a concert by Theodore Bikel. The Sunday breakfast speaker will be the controversial lawyer and author, Eddie Greenspan, whose latest book, In Defence Of, will be released this fall. Rabbi Reuven R. Bulka, will once again, contribute thought-provoking views and wisdom on Jewish issues Sunday afternoon, and our closing lecturer Sunday evening will be Blu Greenberg, feminist and author.

Led by Chairman, Nina Arron and Vice-chairman, Sharri Ritter, the Steering Committee is busy preparing for the Book Fair, Art Exhibit and exciting children's programs which are also a feature of Arts Alive.

Sukkah Celebration

Saturday, October 10, 8:30 p.m.

Agudath Israel Synagogue, 1400 Coldrey Ave.

So, you think after Yom Kippur the Yom Tovim are over? Wrong! One of the loveliest holidays of the Jewish year is Sukkot, and this year, we're offering you a taste of Sukkot with our Sukkot Celebration Evening, co-sponsored with the Recreational Israeli Dance Group. We'll begin with a short havdallah service in the beautiful Agudath Israel sukkah, followed by singing and refreshments. Then we'll adjourn indoors for the real action of the evening — the joy of Israeli dancing. It's group dancing and it's tremendous fun. No experience is needed! We'll start you off slow and simple and by evening's end you'll be an Israeli dancer. We guarantee it! Admission is $4.00 (at the "door" of the sukkah). For more information, call Estelle Melzer at 232-7306 or Joanne Kalman at 225-6030. This event will take place whatever the weather. In case of rain, the entire evening will be indoors.

Travel Options for Singles: A Brunch/Lecture

Sunday, October 25, 10:30 a.m.

JCC, Assembly Hall

Yes, we know you are just getting used to summer's end. However, if you're contemplating taking a winter vacation — or if you want to make next summer a truly memorable one — it's time to start planning now. In order to help you plan, we've asked various experts to discuss "Travel Options for Singles". Marilyn Taller-Waserman of Ports of Call will talk about travel bargains and how to get them, the "hot" places for singles, and how singles can avoid paying extra to travel.

For those considering a trip to Israel, we will have experts on the Israeli travel scene explaining the tremendous variety of programs and tour options for travel in Israel.

Finally, we'll unveil the details of a fantastic Israeli tour, fashioned just for singles: the First Inter-City Singles Tour of Israel. Singles from Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa will share the excitement of touring Israel together. They'll meet Israeli singles, enjoy the lively nightlife and share the excitement of discovering Israel with other singles. Watch for details in upcoming issues of the Bulletin.

Sadinsky In Right

Can We Get a Minyan?

Hard to believe that this would be my lead after the magnificent Second Annual J.C.C. Sports Awards Banquet, but for those of us who have taken more than a passing interest in local Jewish sports for more than a few decades, that really is the obvious question.

Where were all the players? Where were all the fans? Is everything so "political" that if your team doesn't win or if you don't win a personal award, you're a "no-show"?

And what about some of the winners? Whole teams staying away in droves. Rows and rows of trophies to be sent after-the-fact to faceless athletes.

Lou Honigman and I left the dinner briefly to make up a rainy Sunday night minyan, the ninth and tenth men in one of our oldest traditions. As the Chazan Sheini passes on an amusing anecdote about a Montrealer trying to find sports scores in a Jewish newspaper, I realize that if we who play the game won't recognize our own, who will recognize us.

Back at the banquet, we recognized some of our finest Jewish athletes, past and present.

•Jewish Sports Hall of Fame inductees Morris Schachnow, Irving Shapero, and Joe Zelikovitz.

•Up-coming national and international competitors Renee Huck (judo), Corey Guldstein (tennis), Lianne Laing (gymnastics).

•33 year Centre veteran instructor Reg Hewitt

•Jewish "A" Division softball champions, Bradson Personnel, led by Captain Rob Greenberg and MVP pitcher Steve Rothman, and team members Charles "Jewish Thunder" Schachnow, Dave Schlössinger, Robert Levitan, Ian Shabinsky, Joel Zagerman, Stan Wolfe, Mitch Palmer, Ralph "The Doctor" Photosuphe, Brian Kronick, Steve Singer, and Fred Seller.

•Jack Gould, a most deserving winner of the Billy Sternberg Memorial Award for ability and sportsmanship in the Jewish Men's Softball League.

•MVP winners Irv Adler of Bakernet and Howard Naglie of Regional Realty

•45-year-old Joel Edelson, MVP for Irving Rivers softball team, who came out with the whole family and has always been one of the classiest guys in the League.

•Jewish Men's Basketball leading scorer, Jeff Plect and hard-working dinner organizers and presenters Ron Boro, Greg Richards, Gerry Cammy, Roh Greenberg, and Percy Addelman.

Hall of Fame inductee Morris Schachnow probably captured the problem succinctly when he told Ottawa Rough Rider guests Leo Groenewegen and Ray Rubin: "I remember when I was playing in the minor leagues, how a community was behind you, win or lose".

I also remember when this community supported its sportsmen and sportswomen, win or lose, and people looked for an opportunity to talk sports, to tell a few lies, and to start a few traditions.

To all the winners and fans and organizers who worked hard to make this banquet the best ever, a tip of the SIR cap.

To all those who should have been there and expected to see their names in this space, sorry, you'll have to find someone else to say Kaddish for you.

That's SIR for now. See you in two!

for October 23 issue

Establish teen lounge at Beth Shalom West

Beth Shalom West Synagogue is pleased to announce that a permanent teen lounge is in the process of being established at 15 Chartwell Avenue, Nepean.

A joint effort by the Beth Shalom West Steering Committee, the National Council of Synagogue Youth (NCSY) and the Jewish Community Centre is being co-ordinated to ensure that the new Teen Lounge becomes the "in" place to be for teens city wide.

A fundraising raffle with proceeds to be in aid of establishing the lounge downstairs in the Beth Shalom West building is in the planning stages. Members of Beth Shalom West and NCSY will be contacted shortly to help sell raffle tickets in the community for $5.00 each, with a chance to win one of five prizes.

The NCSY executive will help design/decorate and assist in selecting the furnishings for the lounge (i.e. T.V., VCR, stereo, computer, ping pong table, sofas, chairs, carpets, etc.) and the Jewish Community Centre will assist in programming.
